Gill House Restoration Receives Boost
Millers and Sipprelles Announce $50,000 Challenge Grant

by Bill Marquardt

On March 2, Paul and Warren Miller and Dwight and Susan Sipprelle jointly offered the Randell Research Center a $50,000 gift toward restoration of the Ruby Gill House, headquarters of the Randell Research Center in Pineland. This is a challenge grant, and will be given as soon as we raise $50,000 in matching gifts.

As reported in the September Friends Newsletter (vol. 6, no. 3, pp. 1-2), we need funds to complete repairs and restoration of the historic Gill House, which was badly damaged in the hurricanes of 2004. About $178,000 in labor and donated services have been put into the house so far, provided by the Florida Museum of Natural History, the Randell Research Center, Lee County historic-preservation grants, a grant from the Southwest Florida Community Foundation Arts and Attractions fund, private gifts, and donated professional services. Still to be done are structural stabilization work, enhancement of handicap-accessibility, and restoration of the walls, ceilings, and floors. When the project is completed, the Randell Research Center will finally be able to move back into its offices and laboratories, which will be sturdier, safer, and more pleasant for our visitors and staff.

The minimal amount we need to complete the necessary repairs is $108,000, so the Miller-Sipprelle challenge grant is a huge help. As this newsletter goes to press, we have received a little over $19,000, or 38% of what we need to match the Millers’ and Sipprelles’ generous offer. In short, as soon as we raise the remaining $31,000, we can resume restoration work on the house. If you have been considering a gift to the Randell Research Center, there has never been a better time, because your donation will be doubled.

To contribute to the building fund, simply make your check payable to Randell Research Center, indicate that it is for the building fund, and mail it to P.O. Box 608, Pineland, Florida 33945. Donations in any amount are welcome. Like all donations to the Randell Research Center, your gift is tax-deductible to the extent allowed by Federal law, and all donations to the building fund will be matched by the Millers and Sipprelles up to $50,000.
Calusa Heritage Day 2008
by Michael Wylde

February 23rd was the annual Calusa Heritage Day, hosted by the Randell Research Center at the Calusa Heritage Trail in Pineland. It was a great day weather-wise, and the many participants had a great time sharing their knowledge with the public. Over 1500 people attended. Dr. Karen Walker and Dr. Bill Marquardt of the Florida Museum of Natural History and the RRC drew together an amazing array of talent for the event.

In the classroom, archaeologists from the museum had display tables reflecting different aspects of the archaeology of the Pineland site, including zooarchaeology and archaeobotany displays by the Florida Museum’s Irv Quitmyer and Donna Ruhl. Melissa Ayvaz and Ryan Van Dyke had tables explaining the importance of artifact and zooarchaeological curation. On the deck outside, local author D.L. Havlin entertained the crowd with tales from Florida’s cracker days, Gladys Schneider and Gina Poppell explained the history of the Ruby Gill House and Pineland Post Office, and Steve Tutko manned the RRC membership table.

An entire area of the site near Brown’s Mound was set aside for artists and primitive technology demonstrations. Merald Clark, noted artist and illustrator who produced the striking images seen on the Trail’s interpretive signs, participated, as did artists Sue Ellen Hunter, Hermann Trappman, David Meo, Dorothy Looney, Helen Donvan, Pat Townsend, and Denege Patterson. Elizabeth Neily talked to visitors while dressed as a 16th-century Spanish market woman. Calusa pottery technology was taught by noted author Robin Brown, assisted by John Beriault and Stacey Brown. Firing of the pots took place at the site a week later, on Saturday, March 1, under the supervision of John Beriault.

Dick Workman and Rick Tully demonstrated fiber technology and weaving. Terry Powell of St. Petersburg had an amazing display of Calusa shell and wood tools that he encouraged the public to try out. I demonstrated percussion flaking and pressure flaking of stone tools. Mickey Miller of St. Petersburg showed everyone how to make fire without matches or a lighter. John Paeno explained his artifact replications, and metal artist Mike Bonne encouraged kids to hammer.

offered a four-hour boat trip to be raffled off. Tropic Star of Pine Island gave away a boat trip as well.

At 2:00 P.M., Dr. Marquardt gave a talk on “Calusa Archaeology Since Cushing” to a packed classroom, with many people hanging into the doorways to hear the talk. The entire anthropology staff from Florida Gulf Coast University was in attendance, as well as Paul Backhouse and Marion Smith, archaeologists for the Seminole Tribe of Florida. For those others of you who attended, thank you for your support; for those of you who did not, plan to be here February 21, 2009 for the next Calusa Heritage Day. It is a great way to spend a day “doing archaeology.”

There were also ten local environmental and eco-tourism organizations set up along the trail, and local captain Brian Holaway of Relax and Explore Tours out their own metal “bait fish” to take home with them. Atlatls were thrown with assistance from Dick Hunter and José Langone, tools and baskets and cordage were made by visitors, conch horns were blown, and a good time was had by all. There were even Calusa “snacks” available: grilled mullet, local clams, oysters, and fresh papaya, all of which were on the Calusa menu.

Visit the Calusa Heritage Trail
Follow Pine Island Road (State Road 78) to Pine Island. At the four-way stop, turn right and proceed north on Stringfellow (SR 767) about 3 miles and look for a sign pointing to Pineland on the left. Follow Pineland Road through several curves until it meets Waterfront Drive. The Trail begins at 13810 Waterfront Drive, across the street from the Tarpon Lodge.
