

ADORNO

Adornos are extra pieces of clay made in special shapes that potters added to their pots. Adornos, also called effigies, were often made to look like animals, such as this bear and bird. Other adornos could be used as handles or spouts.

Ceramic Bowl with Four Heads
Made by the McKeithen Weeden Island People,
From Columbia Co., Florida
Dates to ~AD 550